Putting Research into Practice: Dealing with disruptive behavior has become one of the most pressing issues in schools across the nation. Educators know of the well-established relationship between weak academic achievement and poor social adjustment. The faculty of Stuarts Draft Elementary is committed to developing a school environment that is both preventative and instructional when it comes to dealing with disruptive behavior. To this end, the faculty has designed a school-wide discipline plan (ESD) to increase the instructional capacity of students. The plan focuses on a proactive approach to solving problem behaviors. The students will be taught appropriate school behavior and the faculty and staff will reinforce those desired behaviors.

All students will be taught to be Respectful, Responsible Scholars: The three main rules at SDES are to be respectful, be responsible, and be a scholar. The children will be taught how these three rules look and sound in all school settings, i.e., in the classroom, hallway, cafeteria, playground, bathroom, and bus. Teachers will spend much time teaching and modeling the appropriate behaviors the first few weeks of school. The faculty and staff will reinforce these appropriate behaviors by giving Cougar Cash to students who will be able to redeem them for specific privileges. This proactive approach has documented benefits: less student frustration, fewer suspensions, less violent behavior, less disruptive classroom behavior, less vandalism, improved morale among students and staff, improved attendance and achievement, development of students’ prosocial skills and responsible behavior. Most importantly, students will learn to take responsibility for their own behavior.

Think Time: In combination with the above, a discipline technique called “Think Time” will be used when any student exhibits a behavior that disrupts the classroom environment. The technique emphasizes the seriousness of education, respectfulness of the classroom environment, and the importance of students taking responsibility for their own behavior. “Think Time” has two parts. The first part is designed to allow students to focus and gain control by asking them to either sit off to the side or move to another classroom. The second part is designed to provide the student feedback about his/her inappropriate behavior and an opportunity to plan for future success in the classroom. Parents will be notified when their child has been directed to “Think Time” four or more times within a school week. Additionally, parents will be asked for assistance if problems persist or if a problem is unusually challenging.

Parental Support: The faculty and staff of Stuarts Draft Elementary encourage you to join us in a cooperative and supportive effort to provide a safe school and a classroom conducive to learning. Feel free to call us at 946-7621 or 337-2951 should you have any questions about our school-wide discipline plan. Please sign the section below, along with your child, to indicate that you have read this policy, and return it to school with your child tomorrow. We look forward to working with you to make this a productive school year for your child.

School-Wide Discipline Contract

Teacher Responsibilities: I agree that discipline is not punishment, but an opportunity to teach. I agree to support the school-wide discipline plan by rewarding students who are respectful, responsible scholars. I agree that Cougar Cash is earned and will not be taken away for inappropriate behavior.

Parent/Guardian Responsibilities: I have read the effective school-wide discipline plan and will join you in this effort to make Stuarts Draft Elementary a safer learning environment for my child and others. I agree to support my child’s teacher and assist her should problems arise.

Parent’s signature ____________________________  Date__________

Student Responsibilities: I agree to follow the school-wide discipline plan and be a respectful, responsible scholar. I will keep up with my Cougar Cash at school, and I understand that lost Cougars will not be replaced. I will use only the Cougars that I have earned, and I will not ask for Cougars. When needed, I will use “Think Time” to calm myself so I can rejoin my class and keep on learning.

Note: Effective School-wide Discipline (ESD) is a Virginia Department of Education (VDOE) initiative to support positive academic and behavioral outcomes for all students. In 2006, SDES received a pennant from VDOE in recognition of our ESD program. That pennant is on display in the lobby.
GUIDELINES for TEACHERS and INSTRUCTIONAL PERSONNEL

Keep these tenets in your mind:
• Research and best practice show that schools must create a safe, supportive learning community, and the key is developing a systematic approach to support positive behavior which involves families, students, school staff and community, i.e., SWD Plan.
• The SWD Plan is proactive, not punitive; it is about teaching children how to be respectful, responsible scholars.
• Discipline is not punishment, but an opportunity to teach.
• All students can learn to be respectful, responsible scholars.
• Only faculty/staff members give out Cougar Cash.
• Cougars are earned, not to be taken away.

When do I hand out Cougars?
When you see specific behavior that matches what you have defined, taught, and expected. A student could earn one Cougar for showing up on time, one for homework done, and another for having materials ready to start a day of learning. You might establish similar target areas throughout the day to help you get in the habit of thinking Cougars. Whenever there is a problem, turn it into a teachable moment with Cougar distributions. Got some kids running down the hall? Pass out Cougars to the walkers.

How many Cougars should I hand out each day?
A lot. Put 100 in your pocket each morning and see if you can recognize appropriate behaviors so that you will need to reload before lunch.

What do I say when I hand out Cougars?
The trick is to recognize and emphasize the behavior that earned the Cougar and not focus on your pleasure over the act. “You were responsible when you remembered your password,” works better than “I liked the way you remembered your password.” Though the students will be receiving a physical (extrinsic) form of immediate reinforcement (the Cougar), the overall goal is that they will realize they are getting a reward because THEY are doing the right (intrinsic) thing.

What do I need to do on the first days of school?
Define, teach and reward. Define, teach and reward. Using the SWD Compact found in the first day packet, introduce the SWD Plan to your students. Show them where you signed the compact and that they are to ask their parents to read it and sign it. Then the student needs to complete the compact, as well. Throughout the first days/weeks, teach the procedures and expectations, and use the posters found throughout the building.
And what do I need to remember when I’m using Think Time?

Stay calm. You need to speak matter-of-factly and use your quiet voice. When the student has completed the process, you must welcome him/her back to the fold using your words and actions. You cannot effectively manage a student, if you are not in control of your own emotions. Sadly, if you let a child see what gets your goat, he will keep going for it.

NOTE: You must define and practice the Think Time procedure with your class during the first days of school, too.
Think Time

The THINK TIME Strategy For Schools; Bringing Order to the Classroom by J. Ron Nelson, Ph.D. and Beth Ann Carr, 1996. This kit, including manual and video tape, will be a part of the professional library in our media center. The faculty will be required to view the video and use the manual in order to incorporate the THINK TIME strategy into our School-Wide Discipline Plan. Instructional aides will view the video, as well, so they can use and support the procedure. What follows is a brief summary of material found in the manual. Refer to the manual for more explanation.

Background:
THINK TIME was developed for two primary reasons:

• First, many of the classroom management strategies used by teachers for disruptive behavior tend to be ineffective because teachers usually respond to disruptive behavior with reprimands, redirects, or negative social exchange. This response often reinforces and may even escalate the undesirable behavior.

• Second, students typically interact with a number of professionals throughout the school week (with each one using a different method or response to disruptive behavior). This tends to undermine the consistency necessary for positive teacher-student interaction.

THINK TIME includes three elements:
1. A precision request that reduces or eliminates warnings and/or repeated requests through early interventions by the teacher.
2. A time-out procedure, contingent on observation, or contingent on withdrawal of attention when a disruptive behavior has occurred.
3. A debriefing process to provide students with feedback regarding their behavior and to plan for the future.

Preparation: Actively teach your students the THINK TIME strategy. Discuss, model, and practice; make it fun, lively, and engaging. Get the students to brainstorm ideas about why THINK TIME is important and why it will create a safe and orderly classroom.

Steps:
1. Catch disruptive behaviors early
2. Move to the THINK TIME area
3. THINK TIME period and debriefing process
4. Check the student’s debriefing responses
5. Rejoin the class (NOTE: it is important that the teacher encourages the student and engages him/her in a positive manner.)
Documentation: Teachers will file each child’s THINK TIME Behavior Debriefing Forms. Letters to parents will be sent after the first 4 TT’s in a week, second 4 TT’s in a week, first office referral/defiance, second office referral/defiance, needing a behavior specialist to observe, and needing TAT referral. In addition, each homeroom teacher will record TT data on the Tracking Forms—one for classroom TT and the other for office TT or TT Help. A copy of the Tracking Forms will be submitted to the SWD Team at the end of each month. The data will be used to evaluate and improve the program.
GUIDELINES for BUS DRIVERS

Keep these tenets in your mind:

- Research and best practice show that schools must create a safe, supportive learning community, and the key is developing a systematic approach to support positive behavior which involves families, students, school staff and community, i.e., ESD Plan.
- The ESD Plan is proactive, not punitive; it is about teaching children how to be respectful, responsible scholars.
- Discipline is not punishment, but an opportunity to teach.
- All students can learn to be respectful, responsible scholars.
- Only bus drivers can give out “Bus Bucks.”
- Cougars are earned, not to be taken away.

WHEN DO I HAND OUT BUS BUCKS?

When you see specific behavior that matches what you have defined, taught, and expected. On the bus you want students to stay in their seats and in their own space, converse quietly with seatmates, and follow all directions given by the driver, i.e. being respectful, responsible riders.

WHAT DO I SAY WHEN I HAND OUT COUGARS?

The trick is to recognize and emphasize the behavior that earned the cougar cash and not focus on your pleasure over the act. “You were respectful when I asked you to use a quieter voice,” works better than “I liked the way you stopped yelling.” Though the students will be receiving a physical (extrinsic) form of immediate reinforcement (“Bus Bucks”), the overall goal is that they will realize they are getting a reward because THEY are doing the right (intrinsic) thing.

WHAT DO I NEED TO DO THE FIRST WEEKS OF SCHOOL AND BEYOND?

Define, teach and reward. Define, teach and reward. You might let them know about the ESD Compact they signed with their parents and teacher. After expectations are learned and practiced, you can continue giving bus bucks each morning, or you can move to a random schedule. If behaviors shift from the desired, you will want to pick up the frequency you use bus bucks.

AND WHAT DO I NEED TO REMEMBER WHEN A CHILD CHALLENGES ME?

Stay calm. You need to speak matter-of-factly and use your quiet voice. You cannot effectively manage a student, if you are not in control of your own emotions. Sadly, if you let a child see what gets your goat, he will keep going for it.

Effective School-Wide Discipline (ESD)
GUIDELINES for Substitutes

Keep these tenets in your mind:

- Research and best practice show that schools must create a safe, supportive learning community, and the key is developing a systematic approach to support positive behavior which involves families, students, school staff and community, i.e., ESD Plan.
- The ESD Plan is proactive, not punitive; it is about teaching children how to be respectful, responsible scholars.
- Discipline is not punishment, but an opportunity to teach.
- All students can learn to be respectful, responsible scholars.
- Only faculty/staff members and their substitutes can give out Cougar Cash.
- Cougars are earned, not to be taken away.

WHEN DO I HAND OUT COUGARS?

Define, teach and reward. Define, teach and reward. This is what the teachers have been doing these first weeks of school. Students, teachers, parents signed the ESD compact agreeing to these procedures at the beginning of the year. You will find small posters throughout the school showing what it looks like to be respectful, responsible scholars in various settings in the school, e.g., bathroom, hall, cafeteria, bus. You will award cougar cash when you see students being respectful, responsible scholars. Whenever there is a problem, turn it into a teachable moment with cougar cash distributions. Got some kids running down the hall? Pass out cougars to the walkers.

HOW MANY COUGARS SHOULD I HAND OUT EACH DAY?

A lot. Put 100 in your pocket in the morning and see if you can recognize appropriate behaviors so that you will need to reload before lunch. Substitute teachers may use double cougars, rather than just one. Please do not use $5 or $10 or $20 or you will deflate the economy. Higher dominations are for saving/banking skills.

WHAT DO I SAY WHEN I HAND OUT COUGARS?

The trick is to recognize and emphasize the behavior that earned the cougar and not focus on your pleasure over the act. “You were responsible when you remembered your password,” works better than “I liked the way you remembered your password.” Though the students will be receiving a physical (extrinsic) form of immediate reinforcement (cougar cash), the overall goal is that they will realize they are getting a reward because THEY are doing the right (intrinsic) thing.

AND WHAT DO I NEED TO REMEMBER WHEN I AM USING THINK TIME?

Stay calm. You need to speak matter-of-factly and use your quiet voice. When the student has completed the process, you must welcome him/her back to the fold using your words and actions. You cannot effectively manage a student, if you are not in control of your own emotions. Sadly, if you let a child see what gets your goat, s/he will keep going for it. NOTE: Teachers defined and practiced the Think Time procedure with their students during the first days of school, too.

If you need support, call the office and help will be on the way. Breathe in through your nose and out through your mouth. Recognize the students who are being respectful and responsible while you monitor the child in crisis. Modeling calm generally keeps the child from escalating. You may ask the class to move out of the room, if you feel that they may be in harm’s way.

Appendix 1 – Think Time Notification Letters
Dear Parent/Guardian,

Your child, __________________________________, has been directed to “Think Time” four times this week. Please take time this evening to talk with your child about his/her behaviors which are disrupting learning in the classroom. If these problems persist, you will be asked to come to school for a conference to assist with the situation.

I encourage you to join me in a cooperative and supportive effort to provide a safe school and classroom environment conducive to learning. Feel free to call me at 946-7621 if you have any questions. Please sign the section below to indicate that you have read this letter and return it to me tomorrow.

I look forward to working with you to make this a productive school year for your child.

Sincerely,

Thank you for making me aware of the situation.
